INSTALLATION AND MAINTENANCE SERVICES

HIGH QUALITY SUPPORT FOR TRUSTED AND ACCURATE DATA.

Systems provided by Campbell Scientific are designed to operate in the harshest environments. Installation, commissioning, and maintenance services supplied by Campbell Scientific, delivered by our experienced engineers, give you the extra reassurance that your systems are set up and then maintained to continue to capture outstandingly reliable data throughout the lifespan of your project. Campbell Scientific's installation and commissioning services ensure your measurement equipment is installed, set up, and configured correctly from the beginning, enabling seamless integration into established networks and immediate data capture. To be assured of continual, lifetime, trouble-free operation, we recommend regular maintenance to ensure ongoing measurement accuracy.

Installation and Commissioning

- Pre installation system testing and verification
- Option to add a site survey - performed before the installation to aid site selection and sensor placement.
- Installation undertaken by experienced Campbell Scientific field service technician.
- Installation plans, risk assessments and method statements created and shared ahead of any works.
- Flexibility around your schedules and time constraints.
- Post installation system verification, training and assistance with software set up and configuration.
- Robust and documented testing to ensure systems meet defined and where required, industry standards.

Maintenance

Routine maintenance will ensure that your system will provide ongoing data quality and assurance, and reduces the total cost of ownership over the systems lifetime.

- Scheduled routine maintenance ensures that
 - Loggers, communication devices, sensors, and system infrastructure are in good condition.
 - Data is at the required frequency and accuracy.
- Maintenance routines include
 - Replacement of accessories with limited life spans
 - On site calibration or swap out of sensors with calibrated units
 - Cleaning, re-orientating and checking all cables and connections
